The one thing, of many other things, that I've enjoyed about AEMS was that the programme was really rigorous and offered an opportunity to meet a diverse group of scholars and students from different backgrounds and countries.

Meeting different people from different countries with different perspectives enabled me to build valuable networks that I will take back to Bavaria.

Vienna was great. I loved the module of social public housing, it was amazing. The public transport is a 'must' anywhere. It's such a beautiful city.

I would very much recommend AEMS for the programme itself and to meet a lot of people, but most importantly, for the city of Vienna.

There is a lot to offer in terms of the way forward and being here, you can think about what society going forward should look like, and I think Vienna is a wonderful place to learn the future of our economy.
