I study at Toronto Metropolitan University in Canada. I am currently in my second year of my Master's Architecture programme.

GBS was really eye-opening in terms of the perspectives that we got to learn about.

I think the whole tone of the programme has been optimistic and the climate strategies that we've been learning are very close to what we deal with in Canada, in terms of experiencing all the seasons.

The way that the academic team talked about approaching some of these things was really new to me, and I learnt a lot.

I think the opportunity to get to know people from many different countries and the way that they learn about the same industry has been really interesting.

I found the GBS programme through my school, which had sent out a call for applicants earlier that year. As soon as I saw it, I knew that it was something that I wanted to study and that it would relate to all the future work that I would be doing.

I would recommend the GBS programme to other students. I think it was definitely an intense programme, but we learned a wide variety of things. The team really created a lot of opportunities for fun activities and excursions and we got to learn about Vienna and about the strategies that we can also take back with us.
