I am from Canada, studying Architecture at Carleton University.

GBS was a real eye-opening experience for me and there were a lot of opportunities and different activities that we were able to do.

Being able to study in Europe was an amazing experience. Living in North America and just having the opportunity to see what people have done here and how they've put engineering to a different level was great.

Vienna is an amazing city. The transportation system is amazing here too.

My favorite thing about the course has been being able to meet new people, being able to discover new designs and new opportunities and ways to design architecture, especially in our growing society.

I first heard about the course through our school when they sent out an email to everyone about the opportunity to be able to go to Europe and take this course. I thought it was a great opportunity for me because living in North America, we don't really have this opportunity of understanding green building design. Being able to just come here and see the difference in how things are designed will definitely be beneficial in the future.

I would recommend GBS to everyone who would want to take it, because you have opportunities here that you wouldn't get anywhere else.
