ALTERNATIVE ECONOMIC & MONETARY SYSTEMS

I'm currently living in the Netherlands studying environmental science at Avans University of Applied Sciences.

I found AEMS through a scholarship website because I was interested in applying for other studies, while also getting a grant. I was fortunate enough to have found BOKU's website, which was promoting AEMS.

I was excited to attend the summer university because I've never learnt about economics before, so it was an interesting challenge for me.

From the economics point of view, it definitely enhanced my understanding of the subject, because coming from a science background, it's definitely a different world and I like to be diverse in my knowledge.

The experience has been fun. I was able to understand more about sustainability within economics, which is also what I intended to do.

I just really appreciated that other participants were really concerned about the future of our world too.
